ORDERS SURVEY ON DEFENSE RELATION

President Asks Secretary of Navy Wilbur to Determine Relative Importance of Airplanes, Battleships and Submarines

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—President Coolidge today ordered Secretary of the Navy Wilbur to institute a thorough survey to determine the relative importance of airplanes, battleships and submarines in the first line of the national defense.

After an hour's conference with the president, Wilbur announced that the desire of Mr. Coolidge to have this survey made at once was the reason for his hurried recall from the Pacific coast.

It was indicated that peace, or at least an armistice, had been effected between the president and secretary of the navy, and that any differences of opinion which might have existed between them had been adjusted for the present and pending the forthcoming naval inquiry.

Wilbur said that the president made no reference during their conference to his speeches on the Pacific coast dealing with the relations between the United States and Japan or the need for greater appropriations to keep the United States navy from falling below the standard set by the Washington armament conference.

The president told Wilbur that the circumnavigation of the globe by army flyers had convinced him of the growing importance of aircraft in the national defense and expressed the wish that the navy would develop plans for putting greater stress on the building and maintenance of air fleets than upon battleships, which he points out will have to be scrapped in the end.

Secretary Wilbur said after the conference that he still regarded battleships as the backbone of the navy, but thought that airplanes and arships should be built and used as a valuable adjunct to the operations of the navy of the future.

Wilbur called at the White House an hour earlier than he was scheduled to see the president.

"The reason I changed my appointment with the president this morning," Wilbur said, "was because the president said it would be more convenient for him to talk with me in the mansion at 9 o'clock rather than come to the office at 10 o'clock."

PASTOR LINKED IN LOVE AFFAIR

Officials Find Photo of Woman Whose Husband Was Poisoned, on That of Minister, Whose Wife Died of Poisoning

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Sept. 20.—"The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want."

This was Rev. Lawrence Hight's reply to the charge he had poisoned his wife, Anna with arsenic. That was the ministers reply today to the question as to whether he had a love affair with pretty Elsie Sweetin, of Ina, where he conducts the Ina Methodist church.

Dr. Hight is already charged with the murder of his wife. Because Wilford Sweetin died under mysterious circumstances July 28, last, and because the tongue of gossip has it that Rev. Hight was infatuated with Sweetin's pretty 31 year old wife, cold medical science will be asked to solve the riddle of the young Ina miner's death.

Sweetin's vital organs were sent to Chicago today to have William D. McNally, former coroner's chemist, determine whether or not poison killed him. If poison should be found and it is identical with that found in the stomach of the clergyman's wife, a second charge of murder may be placed against the minister in the Jefferson county jail here.

Expect Developments Sheriff Grant Holcomb, is convinced the minister knows more about the death of his wife than he has told.

"I have placed a murder charge against him already," the sheriff said. "And we wouldn't do that unless we had something tangible. We expect developments today."

Columbus C. Sweetin, father of Wilford, declared that Rev. Hight had admitted to him that he had given a glass of water to his son while he was lying sick about the night before he died.

"My son, I believe, died of foul play," said the aged man, "and I want to stand on record as saying that I will spend my last cent in the world prosecuting the guilty man."

"I have taken my son's wife into my home, and I am confident she had nothing to do with the death of her husband. They were a splendid couple, and she bore him three sons. Yes, I, to have heard this preacher's name linked up with that of my daughter-in-law, but no one seems to have anything definite. It was merely 'main street gossip.' I can't see any connection with my boys' death and that little lady lying prostrated in that room."

Dr. Hight stood in the sheriff's front office, today and talked this and the other things. He said that formerly he was a race horse man but that fifteen years ago while in the pasture burdened with sin, he saw the light and from then on sinned no more.

"I have been preaching for thirteen years," he said. "I had only two years of high school, but later matriculated with a southern Illinois seminary. You know was converted under unusual conditions."

"Converted Sinner" "I was in a Modern Woodmen's lodge hall over a store in a little Illinois town. A minister came to town. The devil was in me, I guess, so I went over to 'kid' him. I felt kind of sore at myself later, for what he said impressed me. It was two days later, however, that the Lord called me as I was working in a pasture. I was feeling miserable. It was the sin in me, I guess. Finally when I could bear it no longer, a feeling of exhilaration came over me. I knew from that time I could sin no more."

"I haven't," he snapped. Dr. Hight seemed perfectly cool, although a charge of murder stood against him.

"I may get a lawyer," he said once during the conversation, "if I need one. But the Lord is my shepherd and I am an innocent man." He knows.

"I loved my wife. Her passing away was a serious blow to me and now this had to come, but I am not worrying a bit. This was the best year I ever had, both financially and spiritually. I am stronger now than ever in my career. This will not deter me. I want an early trial so that I can clear my name at the first opportunity."

Dr. Hight is a short man with a ruddy complexion. His hair is sparse and on top of his head shines a bald spot. When told of the illness of Mrs. Sweetin, he evinced much interest momentarily, then later said she was "just one of my flock."

Sheriff Holcomb and Mount Vernon officials today were working on a theory that Rev. Hight was madly in love with Mrs. Sweetin through no fault of hers. A picture of the minister with Mrs. Sweetin's picture pasted on the back was found by police who said it was the property of the accused pastor.

MISINTERPRETATION AND UNDUE ALARM

There is considerable being said concerning the Child Labor Amendment. We are decidedly in favor of that Amendment. We know that there are those who criticize it because they fear that the passage of the Amendment will mean that the farms will be denied the service of the children in agricultural pursuits, by the Congress of the United States. There is no reason to believe that our National Congress will interfere with those trades that are protecting the children from exploitation in our mills and factories. There are many states which afford the children no such protection. This is particularly true of some of our Southern states. Twice Congress has attempted to afford such protection by national legislation and such laws were declared unconstitutional. The result has been that the children in these states have continued to be exploited, unfair competition has been carried on by the manufacturers there, because with this cheap, under-paid and exploited labor, they were competing with manufacturers in the North, who are operating under the humane laws of these states to the disadvantage of the northern manufacturer.

Everyone knows that Congress only has delegated power in relation to this question. The states have absolute power. They can pass legislation under the police power affecting the hours of labor of every citizen from the cradle to the grave. Under the provisions of this amendment, Congress would be limited only to pass legislation protecting the children of the country under eighteen years of age. The representatives in our National Congress represent the agricultural area of the nation as they do the industrial centers. There is not the slightest desire or agitation on the part of any of the forces that are urging the enactment of the child labor amendment looking toward any such conditions as certain leaders of farm organizations imagine would come to pass in case this amendment is enacted.

Let us note some of the farmers that are behind this Child Labor Amendment. Among those national organizations associated in promoting this legislation are the following: Service Star Legion; National Council of Catholic Women; American Legion; National Federation Business and Professional Women's Clubs; International Committee Y. M. C. A.; National Girls' Reserve, Y. W. C. A.; Federal Council Churches of Christ in America; National W. C. T. U.; National Women's Trade Union League; National Education Association; American Federation of Teachers; General Federation of Women's Clubs; National Congress of Mothers' and Parent-Teachers' Associations; American Federation of Labor; National Council of Jewish Women; Women's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor. None of these, as far as we know, are opposed to the children working reasonable hours upon the farm and particularly under the direction of their parents. If any attempt were made to enact such legislation, it would have nobody sponsoring it that had a national standing, and it would be opposed by the National Grange, by the Farmers' Alliance, by the American Farm Bureau and by the National Manufacturers' Association, undoubtedly.

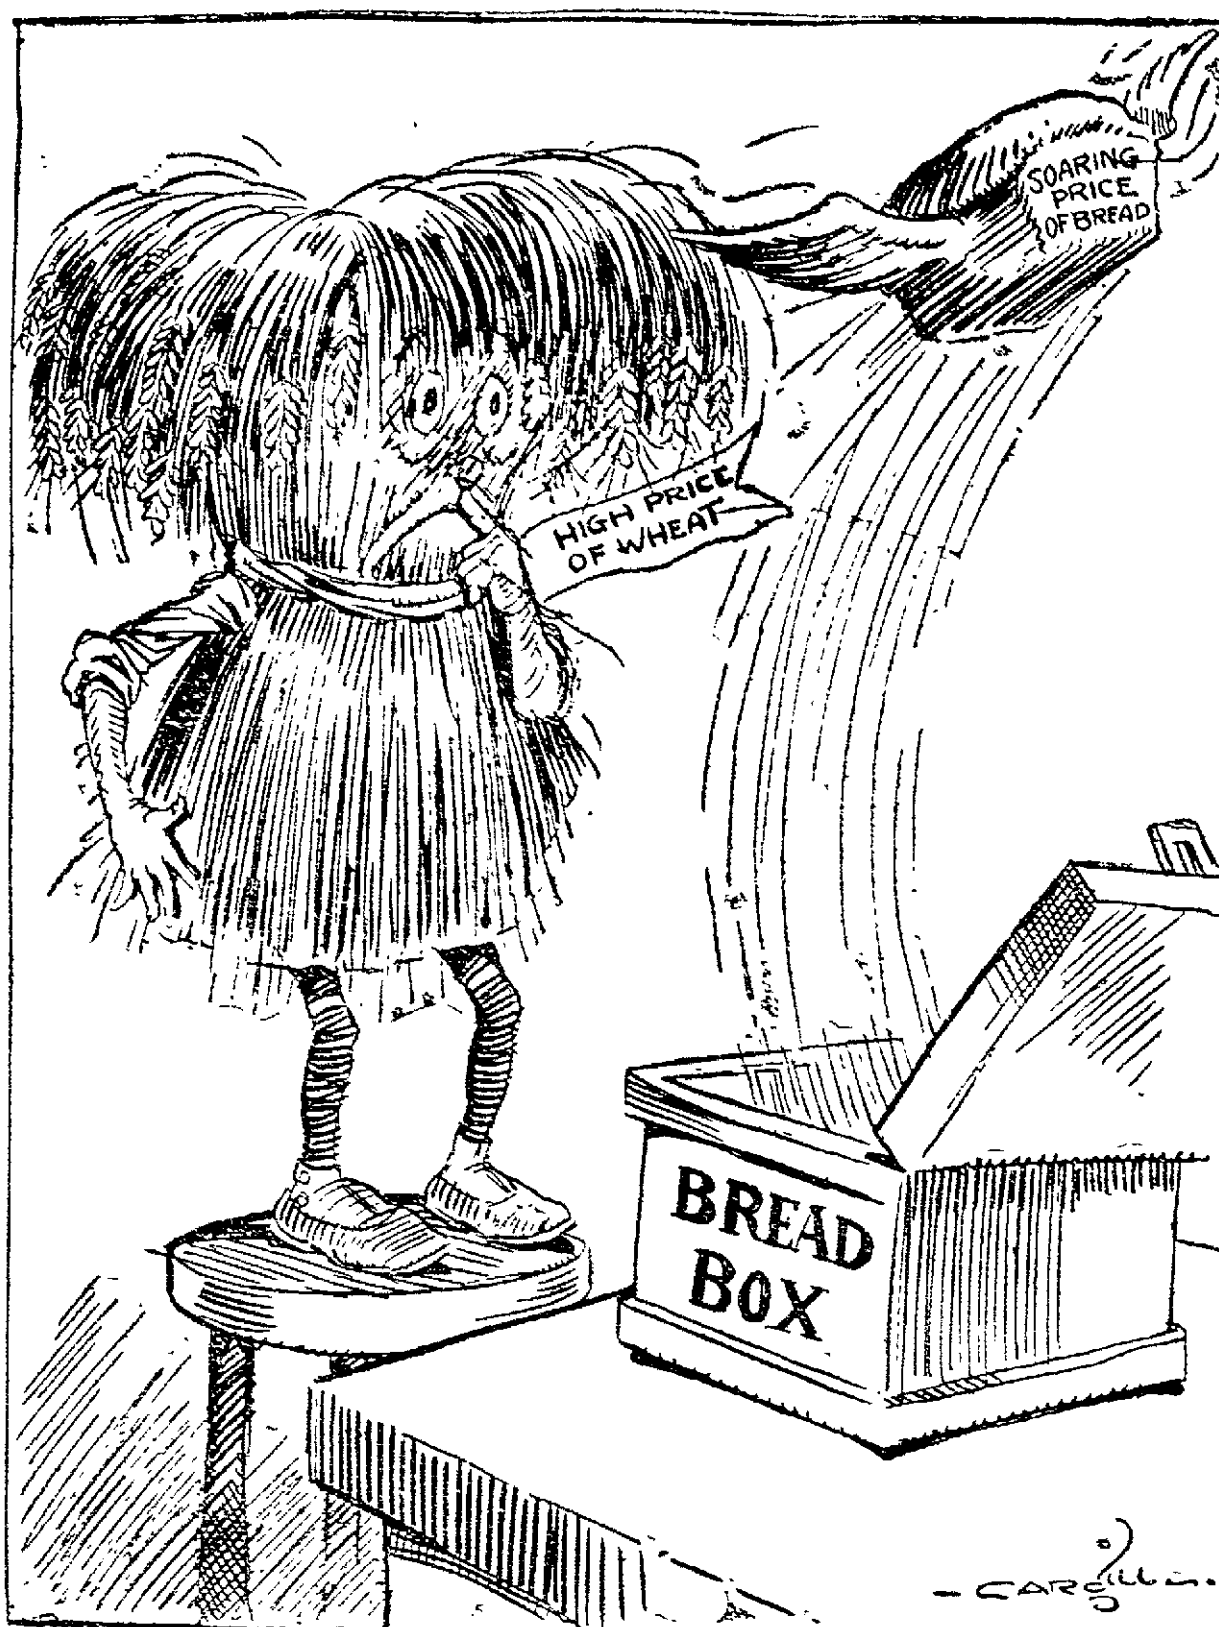

When you find water running up hill and when you find gasoline and fire quietly lying down side by side, you will find Congress enacting legislation that the people are opposed to. Admiral Dewey gave utterance to a very sage remark when he was asked if the Constitution followed the flag. He said, "I don't know. But I do know the congressmen follow the election returns."

Even China is beginning to look after the protection of her children. The first commission that has ever taken cognizance of the child labor conditions in China has recently made its report. It recommends that the Municipal Council of Shanghai shall make and endeavor to enforce regulations prohibiting the employment of children under ten years of age, now; and that four years later, it shall be made twelve years of age, and that children should not work more than twelve hours a day and that at least twenty-four hours' rest, continuously, should be had in every fourteen days. This does not sound very advanced, but it is for China, when it is remembered that many of her children under seven years of age are working and that many of them stand twelve hours a day and longer without a moment's rest. When China gets started she may go faster and further than we will.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

Two hundred and sixty-one cities in the United States now have zoning ordinances. This is good news. As we learn to build better cities—pleasanter and more livable—we shall grow better citizens to live in them.

The Union Pacific railroad saved $900,000 in one month because of the efficiency of new locomotives—very expensive and very large—and the fine conclusion of its engines. There is food for thought in this announcement.

Men who do business on a large scale know how to spend money to make money. Penny saving in large concerns is not the policy that leads to large profits. Wise operators are not afraid to make great expenditures, but they know how and when to make them.

The Soviet government in Russia has prohibited the importation of books into Russia which deal with bees and ants. If those books contain mention of "queens," Colonies of ants and bees are described as help when lacking the ruling power of queens. That sort of thing worries the Bolshevik government. This is an outstanding example of pure dumbness raised to a high power.

John Wanamaker, one of the greatest merchants who ever lived, once said that money was not everything to a business man. Most of us have come to believe that money is everything to a business man. What, then, must the business man have besides money?

Wanamaker believed that if it could be said of a man that his word was as good as his bond, that man had an asset that was as great as money. Young men will find it useful in life, above almost everything else, to gain a reputation for "a word that is as good as a bond." Keep your credit unimpaired. Then, when you need more credit than you ever had before—and the time will come—you can get it.

When John Golden, one of the most successful play producers in America, told John Siddall, late editor of the American Magazine, that he wanted to write an article on clean plays, Siddall said: "I'll tell you something better than that. Write another clean play and produce it." Golden is famous for clean plays. "Lightnin'," "The First Year" and "Turn to the Right" were among his successes. He has done more to make the theatre better than any other man in recent times. Golden has now set aside $100,000 for the production of three new plays. He will give prizes for each of the three. The conditions are that plays of a salacious or sex nature will not be accepted.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"BRITISH LABOR FEARS EFFECT OF REVIVAL OF GERMAN INDUSTRY," SAYS U. S. LABORITE

English labor unions are not superior to American organizations, in their effectiveness, it was declared by Peter J. Brady, American labor union leader, when he returned from England recently.

Brady, president of the Federation Bank, attended the convention of the British labor union, as a delegate from the American Federation of Labor. He added: "My impression of British unions is that they handle their affairs in a very effective and capable manner, and solve their own problems. But in answer to the belief that they are superior to American labor unions, let me say that we have an entirely different situation to face in America. We have forty-eight states, each with its own laws, and each similar to a small nation.

"Having seen the convention in operation, and having talked with the labor leaders there, I am of the opinion that we are far ahead of them, and the position of the workers here is better than there.

"There is considerable unemployment in England, but this is due to the failure of the leaders there to take advantage of the emigration possibilities, particularly to the English colonies. The present labor government, however, fully appreciates the problem, and is working in this direction.

Brady said that while British leaders and workers are happy over the solving of the reparations problem, they express the fear that when German factories are running in full blast, their markets will be flooded, adding to the unemployment problem. They are hoping that the German workers will aid the world at large by refusing to work long hours for small pay, he said.

BARON KEISHIRO MATSUI

The Japanese government has selected Baron Keishiro Matsui to succeed Ambassador Hanhara as envoy to the United States and is awaiting only official approval of the selection by the U. S.

Baron Matsui has been minister of foreign affairs in the cabinet of Viscount Kiyoura. He is a close personal friend of Baron Kato and served as vice minister when the latter was foreign minister in the Okuma cabinet.

The United M. K. Matsui States is not a strange land to him. He served on the Jap embassy staff in Washington some 15 years ago.

During the world war Baron Matsui held the important post of ambassador to France. After hostilities ceased he was selected as a delegate to the peace conference at Versailles.

Baron Matsui has said that he assumes full responsibility for the course of his government during the crisis brought about by ambassador Hanhara's note regarding "grave consequences" that might follow the course of the U. S. government in handling the immigration problem.

BRAKES TO BE MADE U. S. STUDY

Compile Information With View of Standardizing Regulations to Minimize Accidents

Local and state regulations concerning brakes and other mechanical equipment for controlling automobiles are to be made the subject of a national study in which the 46 clubs of the Ohio State Automobile Association will participate with the rest of the 700 clubs of the American Automobile Association.

Secretary Chas. C. Jones said yesterday that the national association is compiling this information with the view of working out more nearly standardized regulations based on the purpose of minimizing accidents. It will be carried on as a part of the safety program of the O. S. A. A. and A. A. A. clubs for this year.

A preliminary report issued by the State Association yesterday declared that there was a startling lack of brake and equipment laws that are good enough to be worth unifying, judging them in the light of modern regulations in force in states on brake laws, for example, showed that practically all of the states use the stereotyped formula that brakes shall be "good and sufficient" or "adequate," terms which are subject to too wide an interpretation.

The following data was included in the preliminary report: "Connecticut is the only state which has a definite requirement as to brake performance, providing that every motor vehicle, except motorcycles, shall be equipped with at least two sets of brakes independent of each other and of sufficient power to lock the wheels while in motion. Yet this regulation is now admitted to be generally inadequate and is not being enforced."

"No provision is made for braking systems which are more effective than those which merely lock the wheels and cause sliding or skidding, as for example, some of the four-wheel brake layouts. Locking of wheels has been generally regarded by engineers as a dangerous feature."

"The Massachusetts law provides that automobiles shall be equipped with two sets of brakes, each of which shall be sufficient alone to stop the vehicle within the proper distance, but this proper distance is not specified and becomes a matter of personal interpretation by the police or the courts."

"In none of the laws is the ability of the driver considered. It is assumed that if brakes are 'adequate' safety will follow as a natural consequence, whereas good brakes are no assurance they will be used. The personal element will have to be considered in any brake regulations that can qualify for uniform adoption by the states."

"In co-operation with the American Engineering Standard Committee, the Bureau of Standards, and the Society of Automotive Engineers, the American Automobile Association will sponsor the development tests that are expected to shed some light upon this question. In co-operation with these organizations a sectional committee representing all the national organizations in the country interested in safety is now being created for the purpose of developing a standard."

O'BRIEN MINSTRELS SCORE BIG HIT HERE

A fair sized audience enjoyed the performance of Neil O'Brien's Minstrels at the Rio theatre last night. There was something doing every minute. The endmen were above the average. And the singing, dancing and jokes kept every one in good humor. The costumes, scenic and electrical effects also helped make the entertainment attractive. Neil O'Brien, himself, was funny, and was greeted happily by the audience. In fact it was the best minstrel show in some time shown here. The band concert in the park was much enjoyed.

HAD TO LET HOUSEWORK GO

So My Husband had to do the Work. Completely Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

South Bend, Indiana. "I was all run-down, tired out, and had pains in my back and bearing-down pains. I was so sore I could hardly drag myself around and was not able to do a bit of housework. My husband worked all day in the shop, and then came home and helped me at night. The doctors said I had female weakness, and there was no help out to be operated upon, and of course that would cost us a great deal. My husband heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the factory and one night he stopped at the drug store and bought me a bottle of it. I had begun to think there was no help for me, but I took three bottles of it and now I feel like myself once more. The price for three bottles wasn't so much as the doctor had charged. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough."—Mrs. DORA OSBORNE, 430 Sherman Ave., South Bend, Indiana.

Women troubled with female weakness should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

MILLIONAIRE WILL SUCCEED WOOD IN MANILA, IS REPORT

Rhineland Waldo, millionaire, until recently deputy police commissioner of New York City, will succeed Leonard Wood in Manila. His appointment as U. S. commissioner in the Philippines will be made, it is said, when the Fairchild bill is enacted into a law in December, as expected.

As a result of this work, Jones said, a complete report of the question will be made as a basis for future legislation.

Tagging The Bases

Scoring nine runs in the first, the Senators swamped the Browns 15 to 9 and won a clear title to first place as the Yankees ran out of gas in Detroit. McNeely, Rice and Goslin got four hits each as Washington pounded six St. Louis pitchers.

The Tigers made a last desperate bid for the pennant by noosing out the champions 6 to 5. A wild throw by Dugan was costly. Paschal, Yankee recruit from Atlanta, got three hits in as many times at bat.

The Giants slaughtered the Cubs 10 to 4 and increased their lead over the Dodgers to a game and a half. Heine Groh was carried from the field with an injured leg.

Dr. Emil Yde, noted Pittsburgh specialist, handed Brooklyn a bitter pill in the form of a 4 to 2 licking, the Pirates climbing to within a game of the Dodgers.

Clyde Day, a rookie started his big league career with the Cardinals auspiciously by trimming the Braves, 4 to 1.

The Red Sox put the Indians to sleep in the twelfth 5 to 3, and edged half a game closer to the promised land of seventh place.

N. Y. STOCK LEAD

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—With the exception of the oil group and a small number of railroad and industrial stocks, the stock market recorded higher prices in the short session today. Market activity was mostly in continuation of the narrow professional movement which has been in progress for the last few weeks. Short covering in specialty stocks accounted for most of the market. Investors buying of dividend shares in National Biscuit, Great Northern Pfd., United States Steel, Corn Products, etc., continued in good volume.

Continuation of the moderate improvement in the business situation was reported by the important mercantile week-end reviews, both Duns and Bradstreet reporting an encouraging gain in industry and business. Mercantile retail trade continues to broaden out as the buying power of the agricultural districts is boosted by reason of the higher prices for wheat and corn. Good reports were also issued from the motor industry today, heavy sales being reported in the new models of popular cars.

The forward movement is Missouri Pacific common and pfd. was the most impressive feature of the railroad share market. At 56 1/2 the preferred stock showed a gain of four points for the week and a new high since the early part of 1922. Northern Pacific and Great Northern pfd. also sold at fractionally higher prices on active trading but St. Paul reacted on renewal of bearish pressure. New Haven and New York Central were in good demand.

The general trend of the industrial leaders was slightly higher, but the volume of transactions again fell off and the market seemed to be entering another period of stalemated. Studebaker, at the head of the motor stocks, duplicated its best price for the year at 41. Nash Motors gained 3 points at 137, a new high for the year; Maxwell and Packard were fairly active at slightly higher prices. American Woolen climbed back to 57-78, the best price on the recovery. Baldwin and American Can also regained a part of yesterday's losses.

Oil stocks were offered at lower prices in the early trading and several large blocks of Marland, Cosden, Phillips and other independent oil came out at the lower levels. Pressure was not exerted for any length of time against the oils, however, and slight recoveries were made in Texas and standard of New Jersey.

Florence Vidor and Olive Brook the English actor, who are featured in "Christine of the Hungry Heart" are also to co-star in "The Mirage," an adaptation of Edgar Selwyn's stage play of that name in which Florence Reed starred.

ALTER HONOR SYSTEM

OBERLIN, Sept. 20.—An alteration has gone into effect in the honor system in Oberlin College. Whereas there used to be three obligations on the part of the student there are now but two. Formerly the student signing the honor pledge was supposed to have given no aid, received no aid, and to have reported any infraction of the honor system which he detected. Due to agitation in favor of a change last year the clause in the system which required reporting of infractions has been dropped, so that the honor court has this year simply advised reporting dishonor if it is seen, rather than requiring it.

MEN OUTNUMBER WOMEN

OBERLIN, Sept. 20.—Fairly accurate estimates of the number of men and women who have registered as members of the Class of 1928 in the college show that Oberlin has actually realized her dream of having more men than women in the freshman class. Approximately 210 men and but 185 women have signed up as members of the incoming class.

SOCIETY

1000 Attend Fall Fashion Show Of The Lewis Mercantile Store

No written word of fashion news can tell the tale half so well as actually seeing the gown. No doubt all of the nine hundred women who attended the Fall Fashion show at the Lewis Mercantile store yesterday afternoon and the something over one thousand that were in attendance in the evening will feel the adequacy of the vocabularies when they try to describe the lovely gowns and wraps to their luckless friends who were unable to be present.

Enroute to the third floor where a runway had been built for the models, who by the way were representative of every type, to pass before the spectators, displaying the wearing apparel, one stopped to "do" the first floor. This floor has a unique way of looking so calm and in order in spite of the hundreds of lovely things on display.

On this same floor one could purchase the material for a party dress with all the rhinestone buckles and handbags for the main material for a sport dress or one for street wear and gloves and handkerchiefs, not to mention a bracelet for every gown. As was mentioned before this first floor is unique and in addition very edifying. One finds there a queer shaped article among the vanity cases and discovers that one contains a powder puff while the other is for her cigarette. Then again there is an ancient French volume in which one can carry their "scotch" with entire safety from breakage.

But one cannot find every thing on the first floor. The hat, the most important complement to a woman's costume is shown on the floor above. In these days of bobbed heads, the one who has not had her tresses clipped dreams the ordeal of buying a new hat but the second floor holds a hat for every sized head.

CHURCH TRUSTEES AUTHORIZE CONSTRUCTION BUILDING

At the business meeting of the Pilgrim Community Church, held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Day, on Gulf street, action was taken authorizing the board of trustees to proceed with the proposed new church building to be constructed on the church lot, the corner of Prospect and Cambridge streets. This location is in the rapidly growing section of the city and not at present occupied by any other church. It is therefore believed that a church in this district would meet a real need.
It is the plan of the trustees to have a building when completed that will be suitable for holding neighborhood social gatherings and entertainments and be ample for a large Sunday school as well as church services.
The trustees feel assured that ground will be broken within a month so that the building may be enclosed before the severe weather of the fall and winter. Funds are being raised to supplement the amount already in hand and as soon as a sufficient amount is assured to meet immediate demands, the work will proceed.

Old at Twenty— Young at Forty

In India, women grow old at twenty. They work too much with their hands—they have no time for things of the mind or spirit. Life is closing on them when it is just opening on the woman of the West.

The woman of America stays young because she keeps her mind young. She avails herself of all the modern conveniences to lighten the household routine. So she is living youth when the woman of India is remembering it.

Our laundry will free you from the youth-destroying burden of the weekly wash. Our many services, our moderate prices, our thorough reliability all make our laundry an indispensable help. But more than anything else, we give you time to stay young. A phone call to us will help you keep younger than the woman of India who has only seen half your birthdays.

MUSICIANS AT RIALTO ON SUNDAY

Mysterious Smith Burns Woman Alive

A splendid bill has been arranged for tomorrow's Sunday concert at the Rialto theatre. Two noted musicians, stars of the concert platform head the bill. They are M. Kurzene, famous violinist, and M'lie Vonla, pianist. To those that appreciate music, they alone are worth the price of admission. Another feature, is the appearance of an octette of youthful beauty, presenting "Privolities of 1924, in a revue of dance, youth and frolic. The act is beautifully staged with a wealth of special scenery and dazzling costumes. Reiff-Murray Trio, three splendid comedians, singers and dancers. Milton and Graham offer a comedy skit that is a scream. Jack Duncan, world famous "Roping Ace," is a whole show in himself. He is a riot as a comedian, and does things with his ropes that have never been duplicated by any other competitor. The pictures will offer Al St. John, in his latest two-reel comedy entitled, "The Tailor." It's a riot. A one-reel current Events of the Day in pictures complete the bill. Matinee at 2:30 p. m.; evening at 7:30 p. m.

THEATRES

Rivoli—"The Red Lily," the story of a boy and girl who love each other, but he is disinherited and she is an orphan. Both go into the depths of Paris, they become separated and meet later when recognition takes place, and after a lot of vicissitudes they gain their self respect and are united. It is a fine story throughout. The first presentation will be Sunday.

Grand—"That world famous picture, 'The Covered Wagon,' will be at this theatre beginning Sunday. This picture needs no introduction and has been viewed by millions of people all over the country. It tells the story of the pioneers of the west in vivid language, and for scenic effects is surpassed by none.

Dreamland—"Princess Gold," a thrilling story full of action, and a real Western. Also a first-class comedy.

HOMEFURNISHERS

ELYRIA, OHIO

Mme. Olga, World Famous Psychic Phenomena, Featured with "The Mysterious Smith Co." at Rialto Theatre All Next Week

Can you imagine a man being permitted to bind a woman to helplessness, place her inside an oven, apply a torch and burn her, in the presence of hundreds of people? Do you think this could not happen? Well, it can and it will, and right here in Elyria. If you are skeptical, you are invited to pay a visit to the Rialto theatre next week, starting Monday night, Sept. 22, while the Mysterious Smith Company is occupying the stage. You will see Mr. Smith go through with the horrible torture described above, while most of the crowd will probably squirm a bit, we feel that Mr. Smith will be permitted to perpetrate his dastardly crime without molestation. This is a weird illusion, one that shocks, yet fascinates. It is so real, so genuine that you will almost smell the burning flesh, and women have been known to scream; but you can rest assured that no damage is being done. It is only an illusion, created by the master mind of one of the greatest magicians on the American stage today. Not only this startling sensation, but many others will be offered to local theatre goers during the engagement of the Mysterious Smith Company. Press reports which have preceded the company lead us to believe that it is one of the finest attractions of the kind ever sent on tour. The thirty years of success which lie back of them would surely indicate something more than ordinary merit. Papers from neighboring cities speak of the show in the highest terms of praise crediting Mr. Smith and his remarkable aide, Madame Olga with presenting one of the finest entertainments in many years. A most complete production, representing an investment of more than sixty-five thousand dollars, will add interest to the event. An entire change of program Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Seat sales now.

TODAY'S BEST STORY
The burning of Rome has caused another uproar—this time right here in Ohio. Recently a fire at Rome, O., was called to the attention of the Ohio reading public, and persons in four counties were somewhat disappointed when they learned that after all the Rome they knew had not been touched by fire. First it was suggested that the report of the Rome fire was erroneous. When the report was checked it was found there are five municipalities in Ohio bearing the name Rome. The Rome which was host to the fire was in Adams county. Others are listed in Franklin, Richland, Stark and Ashtabula counties. None, however, it is said, show any symptoms of rivaling the Eternal City in size or renown.

BILLY WHISKERS

BY FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

Yesterday Billy made friends with a Shetland pony and wanted to know all about him.

"I will gladly tell you. I am advertised on the circus bills as being the smallest perfectly shaped horse or Shetland pony in the world today. I measure less in height than a year-old colt or a St. Bernard dog. And if you will believe me, I am twenty-five years old. That is considered an old age for a horse as their years of usefulness range only from ten to fifteen."

"Well, you are a wonder. And I can easily understand how you would be in great demand by the circus people. Do you know any tricks?"

"I should think I do! I have been taught tricks ever since I was knee high to a grasshopper. I have been on exhibit from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans and from the Gulf of Mexico to the borders of the Arctic circle."

"I can see that we will become great friends for we have lots in common to talk over," said Billy.

"I have traveled some myself and been on exhibit in circuses many, many times. But I always grow tired of traveling around with them and run away."

"I have tried running away, too," said the little pony, "but I am always caught and brought back. My legs are too short to run fast and, besides, I am not a good fighter. All I can do is to bite and kick while you can butt and fight with your horns."

"How comes it that you are shut in this stuffy little back yard?" asked Billy.

"I will tell you. I belong to a troupe of trained animals that at the present time are performing over at the big Emmanenn Moving Picture Studios, a couple of blocks from here. The animals are performing and a moving-picture is being taken of them just the same as if they were people. There is a film of two of our performances being shown now at this place. A big goat that looks enough like you to be your brother and a fierce bulldog are being thrown on the screen right now. If you had looked you would have seen them as you came through."

"So ho! That's the way it is! Yes, I did see them as I passed through, and I did not only see them on the screen but I literally did pass through!"

"What do you mean by saying you literally did pass through them?"

(Tomorrow Billy explains what he did in the picture show.)

U. S. IMPROVING ITS HIGHWAYS, ASSERTS DURANT-STAR DEALER

"The whole world has looked upon France as having the most perfect highway system," says A. L. Jackson, local Durant and Star dealer. "Yet few people realize that the United States, in less than the eight years since 1916, has constructed a Federal Aid Highway System that not only has a greater actual mileage than that of France but is greater in proportion to the total mileage of roads within the two countries."

"Our great network of Federal Aid Highways extends from Coast to Coast and from Canada to the Gulf. When completed, it will be possible for one to travel from any town in the United States of 5,000 population or more to any other town of like size in the country without leaving an improved road."

"Much of this great advancement in our highway system is made possible by the automobile, and at the same time is made necessary by the growing use of the automobile."

"The Federal excise taxes collected on automobiles and parts from 1917 to 1923 amounted to more than $59 millions of dollars. In addition to this are the huge sums collected by individual states in the form of registrations, licenses, gasoline tax, etc., which has helped to build roads."

"More than 25,000 miles of Federal Aid Highways have been completed since 1916—enough to circle the globe with an improved road, built to stand all its anticipated traffic."

"In addition to the Federal Aid Highway System, thousands of miles of state and county roads not within the Federal system have been improved. Each year travel becomes more delightful, and automobile tourists more numerous. Every day Star owners write in about new delightful trips they have taken. When we have been building roads as long as France has, I venture to say we will have something of a system."

NASH MAKES RIGID INSPECTION OF CARS

Testing of an automobile, after it has been completed and before it reaches the hands of the buyer or even the dealer, is an interesting phase of motor car manufacture and is a subject to which Nash Motors devotes unusual attention. Two long steel racks just installed in what is known as the "final test" department of The Nash Motors Company stand as mute evidence of the exhaustive program of inspections and tests which cars bearing the Nash name plate must undergo before they are run out onto the loading platform and okayed for shipment.

After being driven by expert mechanics over the company's testing road where they are checked by one driver then turned over to another and rechecked by him, the cars are up up onto the testing stand. There they are given what is known as an "underneath inspection," the stands making it possible for mechanics

AUTO SENSE

Have you noticed the number of old cars which have been "shod" with the newest type of tires? Every time one of these changeovers is made four or five old tires are trampled in the dealer's shop. The old tires, which in many cases are in good condition and have thousands of miles left in them. Before you buy a replacement, go to your dealer and ask him to show you what he has in stock. You will be surprised at the value you can receive if you are interested in this line. You should pay attention to the old tires. You should make a habit of buying a tire that is a good one. equipped with electric light bulbs to carefully and fully inspect all parts for proper lubrication, nuts and bolts for tightness and thus to finally okay or reject for immediate shipment cars that pass over the stand during the day.

Prior to this and to the actual road work of the cars they are given literally thousands of rapid inspections and tests in the making. In fact there are inspectors in each department of the large Nash factories whose sole responsibility is to see that no piece of material or part is permitted to pass that does not measure up to the strict requirements laid out by the company.

OLDSMOBILE COUPE IN THREE COLORS

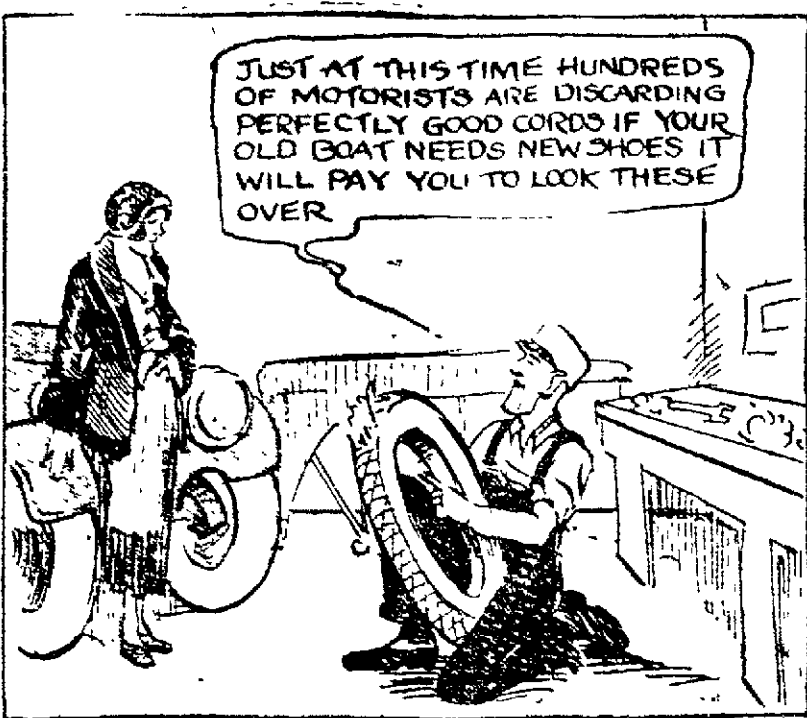

To meet the demands caused by the growing and diversified uses which the two passenger coupe type of automobile is successfully filling, the Olds Motor Works, Lansing, Mich., has started to produce the coupe in a variety of color finishes. At the present time the factory is finishing the coupes in shades of blue, maroon and brown, and it is probable that other colors will be added in the near future. In each case, chosen for its smart finish and durability, is used.

Several sound business reasons have prompted the adoption of a wide color range in the finish of this general utility Oldsmobile model. Investigation has shown, factory officials report, that the two passenger coupe is used more universally for business purposes than any other body type, and that its use in this field is of the widest possible range. A survey of sales records shows that it is one of the most favored models for physicians, lawyers, clergymen, commercial representatives, business men who drive to their offices from suburban homes, and wives who desire the independence of a car of their own affords them for shopping, visiting, etc., regardless of whether husband has the family car down town or not.

So diversified a sales field as this has created a demand for cars finished in different colors. The deep, rich blue which recently was adopted as the standard color for practically all model Oldsmobiles has no breaks in the walls. By pushing your heel into a tire and turning it around slowly you will be able to locate such defects. Watch out for "cold patches" on the inside of the casing. They are usually put in to cover a hole or break, and it is not advisable to buy a tire of this kind. Also, examine the outside of the tire to be sure that the sides have not been scraped against curbing and run until the rubber is badly eaten away. If this is the case and you find that the remaining rubber on the walls is cracked, worn, or may have gotten into the cord layers, rotting them until the tire is weakened.

ability to speed up quickly avoids tight situations. From 5 to 25 miles per hour in nine seconds shows how agile the Franklin is in this kind of driving. When out on the road acceleration from 30 to 50 miles per hour in 15-18 seconds makes it possible to get around the jagged without risking "close calls" with cars approaching rapidly from the opposite direction.

"Any marked ability to accelerate calls for deceleration in equal degree, which Franklin provides in its powerful non-skidding transmission brake. With it, the car can be brought to a stop

ACCELERATION HELD SAFETY FACTOR BY FRANKLIN MANAGER

"Ability to accelerate quickly is a very definite factor making for safety in automobile driving," says S. E. Ackerman, sales manager of the Franklin Automobile Company. "While the Franklin car has always had an enviable reputation for safety, 49 per cent increase in power now gives it a safety of movement which makes it a safer car to handle than ever."

TELLS PRESIDENT "LAY OF LAND" IN GOLDEN STATE

There is much speculation in Washington about the conference President Coolidge had with Chester E. Rowell, California progressive leader. It is known that the president is worried about the situation in the Golden State, which is unsettled so far as the G. O. P. is concerned, due it is said, to the inactivity of Senator Hiram Johnson and the activity of La Follette adherents.

DURANT PROFITS MILLIONS IN NEW MARKET COMEBACK

The "most talked of" man in Wall Street is W. C. Durant, whose fortune was almost wiped out in 1920 by speculations in General Motors. In 1921-22 he won back $4,000,000 in deals in Studebaker. Now he is $2,000,000 richer as a result of deals in United States Cast Iron Pipe.

OAKLAND SIX CLOSED CAR ANSWERS DEMAND

"In selecting your closed car, more than in any other purchase, you are seeking a combination of sound mechanism, sturdy body construction, and correct artistry—ability to do the work, coupled with beauty and dignity of appearance."

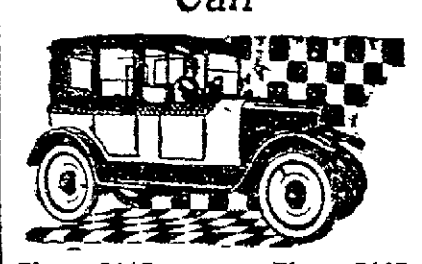

"Oakland six-cylinder closed cars meet these demands because the Oakland chassis is the most advanced mechanism in its price class, and because their bodies are produced by masters of automobile coachcraft. The Fisher Body Corporation, which designed these bodies and builds them exclusively for Oakland, is acknowledged throughout motordom to be unequalled in creative ability and manufacturing equipment."

The bodies combine graceful outward appearance with abundance of room inside, and furnish complete provision for the travel comfort of their passengers. Upholstery is in finest materials and of colors that harmonize with the body finish. Heaters, dome lights, mechanical window lifters, rear view mirrors, and automatic windshield wipers are instances of the complete appointments that contribute to the inviting charm, and refreshing comfort of these cars."

"The four Oakland closed models are equipped with the new Fisher one-piece windshield of an entirely new type, which gives maximum visibility and is weatherproof under all conditions. It is mounted in the car exactly as the windows are, in felt-lined channels, in which it may be raised upward by a convenient regulator so that the entire width of the car across the front is thrown open for a full sweep of fresh air. When partially raised, it deflects air downward through a special ventilator into the driving compartment."

"Easy-riding qualities are enhanced by full sets of balloon tires and the finest type cushion springs on all models."

"The cars maneuver with the smoothness, the flexibility, and the responsiveness of a finely engineered, finely-built mechanism. Automobile Controlled by Radio

And now it is the radio automobile. This vehicle, designed and assembled by electrical engineering students at the University of Illinois, is operated by a driver who sits at a distant radio control board.

The automobile, a touring model, can be driven backward or forward from any distance within radio reach. Its horn can be tooted and its lights turned on or dimmed. In tests the machine was driven by an operator a mile away.

"Practical?—Oh my, yes!" declared one of its student inventors. "Think of it—a man in San Francisco can take his car out for a spin in New York with this equipment. Trains can be raced to crossings in absolute safety. The driver of a radio automobile never dives through the windshield."

The pictures show the selector and accompanying apparatus which is attached to the automobile. It is fastened to a board which is placed from the dashboard across the driver's compartment to the back of the front seat. The other picture is of the control board and the operator "stepping on the gas."

DAILY NEWS LETTER

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 20.—Tia Juana, Mexico, the quaint little Mexican town, nesting just across the border line, 17 miles from San Diego, ever the mecca for thirsty Americans, "entertained" more than 30,000 carefree Americans on Labor Day. According to Customs officers at the international boundary line, more than 10,000 automobiles crossed into Lower California for the two-day celebration.

Only four city blocks—occupied by saloons, cafes, dance halls and beer gardens, with one or two curio shops—make up the Ciudad de Tia Juana, but those four blocks with their tiny and narrow sidewalks, never saw such a gay throng as that which visited the place in celebration of Labor's annual holiday. It was a spectacle seldom seen to stand back and watch the mob, five and six deep, lined before the long saloon bars, all clamoring and fighting for a drink.

While gambling, except for slot machines for any sum from five cents to a five-dollar gold piece may be played, is no longer permitted in Mexico, the saloons and beer gardens hold out untold promises not to be had in this country because of the Volstead act and a large crowd, be it a holiday or not, is always to be found in Tia Juana.

However, present international regulations keep the border closed between 9 p. m. and 6 a. m. and only during those hours are the streets of the place deserted, and not entirely then as many of the American tourists that come here find a "kick" in remaining overnight and seeing what the dead hush of night may offer for excitement.

Most of the liquor consumed in Tia Juana is brought up from various parts of Lower California. Some of it even comes all the way from Mexico City and other parts of old Mexico. Most of the beer drunk here—large steins for a paltry 15 cents—is made at Mexicali, the Lower California capital city and just across the line from Calexico, a little American city in the lower edge of Imperial Valley. The major part of the whiskies and wines, however, are made in the hills between here and Ensenada, 80 miles to the South, and brought here by truck and burro pack train.

Wanton drunkenness is not to be found on the street of Tia Juana. There is the exception, however, but even then it is not of the loathsome variety. The crowds to be found here are simply of the jolly and jovial variety that mills, storms and shuffles along the narrow streets in carefree abandon, having a good time themselves and trusting everyone else is equally as happy.

Tia Juana, so far as its natives and residents are concerned, is the American "Main Street" all over again in Mexico. It has its social elite, who reside on the "exclusive East Side," as well as its social "climbers." The Mexicans, as a whole, have often been termed the most courteous, hospitable people to be found anywhere. To be invited into the home of one of the better families is a signal honor, which few Americans could courtously refuse. No Mexican, whether he be of the higher or lower class, ever addresses anyone outside of his family without addressing him first as "your highness." It is simply a custom of old Spain that has been brought to this country and handed down through many generations.

And Tia Juana has countless dusky maids, with black sparkling eyes, who challenge feminine beauty to be found anywhere. The Mexican maidens reach the zenith of their beauty and charm anywhere between twelve and twenty-five years. Their one failing is that after this age they usually become darker in color and heavily lined with wrinkles. This, however, may be explained by the outdoor life most of them live.

The latter part of November, or by Thanksgiving Day, when horse racing for the Winter season at the Lower California Jockey Club turf plant will be resumed, will bring an entirely new crowd here for at least three months.

The most amazing thing to be found at Tia Juana is the "air of freedom" to be found within its gates. All one needs to do is mind his own business and no one will hamper him in doing as he pleases.

FINAL CITY CLASSIC GAME TOMORROW

CANDIES EXPECT TO SURPRISE WILDER CIGARS' TEAM

At Riverview Park, Sunday afternoon the Wilder Cigars and the Moulton Candies meet in mortal combat. It is a foregone conclusion that someone will lose, but who?

In most cases the future is judged by the past, but in this case even history fails to show enough for even the most rabid fan to quote it extensively. To date the Candies have a sweet record with fifteen wins in eighteen games while the Cigars have garnered sixteen triumphs in twenty starts for the enviable average of .800.

In each case the opposition of the teams when they last was of the highest quality. The Moultons beat the Richwines 12 and 2 in a loosely played game early in the season but little importance can be attached to this victory as it came before any of the teams had hit their stride. Last season the Cigars defeated the Richwines twice, 2 and 1 in ten innings and 5 and 0.

According to manager Evans of the Cigars his men are hitting much better than on the last few appearances. This comes as gratifying news to the Smokers' faction because their team has slumped dangerously at the plate. Tho-

Vance Flirts With Great May Equal Feats of Walt and By-Gone Stars

By NORMAN E. BROWN

In addition to hanging up a strikeout record the current season Dazzy Vance bids fair to turn in a won and lost record that will place him alongside Walter Johnson, Joe Wood, Rube Marquard, Dick Rudolph and others of the comparatively select few who have stood the opposition on his head for the duration of the campaign.

Johnson, in 1913, turned in 36 victories and only 7 defeats for the year's work. The year before that Johnson and Joe Wood had shared a new American league record of 16 consecutive victories, each hanging up that many for their bosses.

Wood also holds the world's record for high percentage of games won with his list of 36 games won and but 4 lost.

Rube Marquard holds the modern record for consecutive victories—his 19 scored in 1912.

Tom Keefe, old National leaguer, hung up a like number for the Giants in 1889.

Going back to the early days of the game the record of A. G. Spalding comes to light. This wonderful old hurler in 1875 won 37 of 61 games that were counted in the standings.

That year he won 20 consecutive games. His next one ended in a tie. He then won the next four which really gave him 25 pitched games without a defeat.

Dick Rudolph once hung up an enviable record, but sort of busted in the middle. He won a stretch of nine games, was beaten, and then came back for something like 10 more wins.

ELKS' GRIDDERS TO OPEN SEASON SUN. WITH BUCYRUS 11

By CLIFF HENNINGSON

With the world of sports satisfied of the superiority of American polo and tennis and big league baseball drawing to a close, the game of football is coming back in the spotlight of public notice.

Elvria, as in former years, is to be well represented on the gridiron.

Manager Leedale has reorganized the Elvria Elks team, city champs of 1923, and in addition has leased the Alumni Field for the season thus making it possible to book good teams in advance as well as having a good field and plenty of seating capacity.

Bucyrus Strong
The first game of the season takes place Sunday on Alumni Field at 2:30 when the Antlers face the strong city team of Bucyrus.

Manager Fisher of the Bucyrus eleven who conducts a wholesale sporting goods establishment, doesn't say a great many words about his outfit except that it is the same team that took the measure of the Sandusky Maroons last season. To our way of reasoning that is the art of brevity—saying a lot in a few words. It develops, however, that the Bucyrus team is the pick of four cities, namely Gallon, Crestline, Mansfield and Bucyrus. That fact should speak for itself.

Antlers, Real Team
Local fans last season went to give the Elks much credit in being an up and doing ball team even though they traveled down the home stretch and under the wire undefeated with 148 points scored against their opponents 5 for the season.

Those fans, however, who were fortunate enough to witness the K-B. Barbers and the Antlers fight it out for the 1923 city championship, which the Elks won 7-0, will have a different story to tell.

This year Manager Leedale promises a bigger and better team and as we know Ernie, he usually gets what he goes after. It will be remembered that he was the ringleader of the movement, in 1922, which made possible the erection of the bleachers at Alumni Field in time for the annual classic between Elvria and Lorain high.

Tomorrow's bill will be the initial game of Sunday football on the Elvria High field, although two other neighboring schools, Ashabula and Sandusky lease their grounds for Sunday games.

Real Stars
The Elks' roster sports a real all-star list. Every man has played the game at least three years and not a few were college players.

"Baldy" Guthman has been handling the coaching reins of the Elks and reports the team in good shape for the visitors.

Capt. "Duck" Offield need have no fear of a shortage of players. Unlike most semi-pro teams, the Antlers have enough first class players to send in freshmen to run the ball if such a condition is necessary.

Guthman and Offield, veterans of many gridiron situations will alternate at the quarter position. Both are good field generals and highly efficient in driving a team when needed.

"Speed" Krugman, one of Elvria High's most steady players during 1921-22-23, will be seen back at center.

The guard berths will be well taken care of by Henry Tulk, "Red" Barton, "Nap" Heinzelring and "Wade" Reynolds.

A trio of fast and hard hitting tackles are to be found in George Tulk, Renouard and Alf Brouse.

The wingmen, Don Granger, "Ichy" Braddon, Schmuck, a new man from Ashland College, and "Biddy" Clark will give a good account of themselves when it comes to getting under punts and cutting out opponents.

The backfield boasts of a sextette of triple threats of no average ability. Bob Rankin, "Truck" Crowe, "Ken" West, and Bill Bruck at halves and Archie Penfound or Whitney, of Oberlin, backing up the line at full will produce a variety of offensive that will gain against most any opposition.

The Reds made merry at the expense of the hapless Phils, slugging their way to a 9 to 5 victory and climbing to fourth place.

RULES MEETING IS LARGELY ATTENDED

Another Session Called For Next Thursday to Discuss Changes in Football Rules

Quite a large attendance was present last night at the local Y. M. C. A. where a meeting was called for anyone in the county who was interested in securing a clearer understanding of this year's rules. Last year several of these meetings were held and good turn-outs were had each time and from all indications they are growing in favor from the looks of the turnout at last night's meeting.

The local Y. M. C. A. has taken the initiative in calling together these coaches, officials and players and in so doing has rendered this section of the state a distinctive service as most of these present at these meetings were coaches of the leading teams of this section or officials who handle the main games played in a radius of a good many miles from Elvria. They thereby set a high standard of play due to a better understanding of the rules and also to a standard set of the rules so that one official will not call one play one way and another official the other way.

Some of those present last night were: J. L. Oppel, E. M. McCleskey and J. W. Graham, all of Lorain; John H. Atkinson, Emil A. Weiss, John Williamson, C. L. Mackey, E. D. Jones and G. R. Close, all of Oberlin; A. B. Branson of Wellington; Harry Forbes, George Johnson, W. L. Vaughn, Coach Beeler, Wilbur Herby and physical director McMillan of Elvria. Besides the above there were a number of players from Oberlin, Lorain and the first and second squad of the local high school.

The next meeting will be held next week on Thursday night at the Elvria Y. M. C. A. and has been called for 7:30 p. m. sharp.

CITY SHOOTERS GETTING IN TRIM

Register Good Scores at Elvria Gun Club Shoot; Report Ducks Flying South; Tom Hollingsworth and Son Shoot Well

As the season grows shorter the crowds keep getting larger at the trap shoots held by the Elvria Gun Club. The mid-week shoot held at Pasadena park was well attended. More than 30 shooters were out and some very good scores were registered.

The scores were as follows:

Fifty Birds
B. Daniels	45
T. Hollingsworth	43
D. Wetzel	41
C. Wise	40
A. Cave	40
P. Ford	39
F. Smith	37
L. Chisholm	36
G. Findley	36
J. Orton	35
E. Peck	35
J. Allen	35

Twenty-Five Birds
J. Wadsworth	21
H. Dickason	21
H. House	21
A. Hudakut	19
J. Burgen	19
K. Day	17
E. Wilcox	16
L. Jackson	15
Joe Snyder	13
H. Miller	12
Bob Hollingsworth	12
Bob Oscar	10

One of the features of the shoot was the shooting of young Bob Hollingsworth, son of Tom Hollingsworth. Bob had a 20 gauge cylinder bore gun and the first attempt broke 10 as the score indicates. Bob was given a handicap of only three yards when he should have been perched out on the trap horse with a gun of small dimension and limited shot. It was a real father and son day as Tom was just as well pleased to have Bob shoot as if it had been himself. There are several of the shooters who will remember the day at Oberlin when Tom put a hunting coat or shooting jacket as a prize and then proceeded to win it both times himself.

It was a large day for everyone and several of the fellows that have been out only two or three times show a decided improvement.

Mrs. E. M. Knowles telephoned in this morning that she had not heard several geese migrating their way south. Jack Brandt of the Troxel plant spent the first two days of the season in the Put In Bay district and reports many ducks.

FOOTBALL IS WITH US AGAIN

By E. S. SELLS

Yes, Football is With Us Again!

If the diamond is significant of the summer months then autumn's birthstone is the gridiron.

The chief difference in the two great sports is that in baseball you pay eighty-five cents to see the world's best performance while in football you pay ten bucks to yell your head off at some bushers that still think the food was a Parmesan picture.

As for the umpire it makes no difference to him. After he has called two fifteen yard penalties on the home team he thinks he has called a third strike wrong with the bases full.

In baseball you make your kicks to the umpire; in football you make your kicks to the other side. Consequently there is a lot more kicks made since it doesn't make the other side mad like it does the ump.

On a baseball team everybody talks, but in a football game nobody says nothing but a guy that can't count right.

This is the time of year when hospitals located near football fields begin to realize on their investment.

If prize-fighting is brutal then football is plumb barbaric.

In a fight you are mauled by one man of about your own size with padded gloves for thirty minutes and fifty thousand dollars. While in football you are massaged by twenty-one faired of generous tonnage and spiked shoes for an hour. And your only reward is a diploma after you are too crippled up to be of further use to your Alma Mater.

A pugilist gets a tin ear and a fortune. A football star gets a broken back and a fraternity funeral.

Oh yes, Football is with us again!

OBERLIN HIGH TEAM HAS ONLY 4 LETTERMEN

OBERLIN, Sept. 20.—With thirty candidates busily engaged every afternoon in punting the pigskin, bucking the line and learning signals, Coach Johnny Atchinson is rapidly whipping into shape a light but fast high school football team in preparation for the first game here next week with Bellevue.

But four letter men are back this year, the only star of last year's squad who is left over, being Captain Rolland Van Ausdale, who showed up so conspicuously last season as center and tackle. This year's team is about equal in weight to that of '23.

Atchinson, a graduate of Wooster in 1923, was in charge of the Oberlin lads last year. The games this year will be played on the High school's new field back of the new High school building. The lot is being put in shape, and, although it is not expected there will be any seats put up this year, a good solid gridiron is promised.

Lorain Eagle Soccers Play Jordan Lumbers

LORAIN, Sept. 20.—If past performances are of any worth in predicting whether a team has a chance to win, then the Lorain Eagles soccer team is the choice to be returned the victor in their first match of the Cleveland league schedule, which gets under way Sunday.

The Eagles meet the Jordan Lumbers at Oakwood park, and on past performances, have the edge. The Eagles beat the Jordans in the first round of the Labor cup play on Labor Day after two strenuous periods 2-0.

The Eagles also have a new player, fresh from across the pond who has bolstered up the lineup of the team, and the local Birdmen are confident of getting off on the right foot to their second Cleveland league title.
